ABSTRACT

This article discusses urbanization which has social, economic, and cultural impacts on urban communities. In general, urbanization is defined as the movement of people from rural areas to urban areas. But the problem posed is not as simple as many people imagine. If the government does not properly regulate and facilitate the urbanites, it will become a serious problem for the survival of people in urban areas. This is understood because every year the number of residents who urbanize has grown, meaning that residential spaces are also their needs in the city.
